

JEFFREY GURDUS, Trustee

The Northeast Queens Jewish Community Council elected Jeffrey Gurdus as its 8th president in May, 2001. He served longer than any predecessor through May 2008. He was elected as a Trustee in 2008.

Jeff was born in the Bronx and moved to Queens 41 years ago. He attended Flushing High School and continued his education at Pace University. He currently works as Director of Community relations for Ambassador Publications and is recognized among his peers for superior skills in the advertising marketing and sales field.

He has been an active member of the Bellerose Jewish Center for many years and has served as a Trustee and a Community Relations Chairperson as well as a Delegate to the NEQJCC.

As an active community volunteer, Jeff is presently an officer in the Queens County Line Democratic Association and past Chancellor Commander of the Knights of Pythias Franklin Delano Roosevelt Lodge #613. He has coached and managed the Little Neck Douglaston Little League and Mid-Queens Basketball League and is a concerned member of the North Hills Civic Association.

When Jeff is not working and serving his community, he is enjoying fishing, sports, computers and spending time with a family that he is very proud of.

His son Jason, recently married, is a Hofstra Law School Graduate who was published in the Hofstra Law Review. His daughter, Lauren is a Queens College junior and has often worked at the Samuel Field Y.

Jeff, his lovely wife Sydell, and Lauren make Little Neck, Queens their home.
